THE SHOW MUST GO ON

Dear Friends,

I'm so glad that you are here tonight to enjoy the show that I think will be the crowning achievement of the Uptown Music Collective's 2022-23 performance season. The music of Queen is intricate, challenging, intense, and emotional. Behind their rock anthems are dense vocal harmonies, complicated forms, thick multi-guitar lines, great drum and bass grooves, and of course Freddie Mercury's operatic vocal delivery and powerful rock presence. Which asks a lot of any performer seeking to cover it, and do it justice.

With this being the last show of a highly successful performance season, the student performers of Special Performance Group 1 were very excited to get to work on this music. For the last month or so they have put hours and hours of personal and group practice into bringing this great music to life for all of you tonight.

During this year, and the shows Girls Just Want to Have Fun, Friends in Low Places, and Freebird, this group of students have proven themselves to not only be strong musicians but also some of the best performers to hit the stage as part of this program. Tonight will be no exception, as all of the group's hard work comes to fruition in a dazzling display of musicianship and showmanship.

This performance is directed by performers Luke O'Brien and Abby Colone, both seniors at Loyalsock High School. They were assisted by the members of the Special Performance Group Leadership Committee who helped to plan the light and sound production, as well as the stage performance you will see tonight.

Enjoy tonight's show, and be sure to check our social media for the release of the schedule for next year's shows sometime in the late summer. Again, thanks for attending tonight! We are always amazed by the community support of our programs, and we greatly appreciate all of you.

Sincerely,

Dave Brumbaugh, Executive Director – Uptown Music Collective
